It is very common for modern people to learn foreign languages. However, some people may wonder why bother learning a new language; some may not be highly motivated. If you are one of them, the following findings may change your mind. You will be certainly amazed at what learning new languages may bring you.

According to the studies, learning foreign languages may:

1. make you smarter

Speaking a foreign language makes your brain function better by challenging it to recognize, negotiate meaning, and communicate in different language systems.

2. help you keep away from Alzheimer's and dementia

3. improve your memory and increase your attention span

Learning a new language helps strengthen that mental "muscle." This exercise improves overall memory and challenges you to concentrate longer.

4. better your problem-solving and decision-making skills

Bilinguals or multilinguals tend to make more sensible decisions. Any language contains slight differences and subtle implications in its vocabulary, and these can influence your judgment without knowing it.

5. enhance your travel experience

Traveling abroad becomes much easier if you can speak the language of that country. Locals appreciate your attempt to learn their tongue. Thus, it is even easier to make friends.

6. help you get a job and make your employers love you more

You have greater chances of employment than those speaking only one language. Foreign language ability is considered a valuable asset in an employee's skills. It shows that you are willing to learn new skills.

Here are just a few of the many benefits of learning foreign languages. What are you waiting for? Why not get started right now?

34. What is the best title for the passage?
(A) How to Make Language Learning More Fun

(C) Amazing Benefits of Learning Foreign Languages
(D) The Best Timing for Language Learning
35. What is an attention span?
(A) An occasion when two people communicate with or react to each other.
(B) The length of time during which one can keep his thoughts fixed on something.
(C) The ability to continue trying to do something, although it is very difficult.
(D) The process in which someone or something grows or changes and becomes more advanced.

36. According to the passage, which of the following situations might NOT motivate one to learn foreign languages?
- (A) One hopes to have a chance of working in an overseas branch.
 - (B) One hopes that he has a better memory and focuses longer.
 - (C) One wants to work out at a gym in his or her neighborhood.
 - (D) One wants to make local friends while traveling abroad.
37. According to the passage, which of the following statements is NOT true?
- (A) One with foreign language ability may hold a positive attitude toward learning new things.
 - (B) One may receive more appreciation if he can speak the local language while traveling abroad.

The leopard cats are the only surviving native wild cat after the disappearance of the Formosan clouded leopard. They are roughly the size of housecats and live in Taiwan's lower elevations of around 500 meters. Areas mixing wilderness with agriculture are particularly hospitable for them as rice fields provide ideal habitats for leopard cats' favorite prey, such as field mice and other rodents. While the species is very common across a wide range of habitats from Pakistan to Siberia and the Indonesian archipelago, it is on the edge of extinction in Taiwan. It is estimated that there are less than 500 of them divided into three isolated populations in Miaoli, Taichung, and Nantou.

Habitat destruction is the biggest threat to leopard cats. Road building and some development programs are destroying their habitat seriously. Two years ago, for example, construction began in a wetland park in Chuo Lan in the name of economic development, and yet it destroyed their natural habitat. Although the construction has stopped, it has already caused great damage. What's worse, there are some other development projects besides the park. As for road building, the news that leopard cats have been killed in traffic accidents is not strange.

Moreover, to hunt for survival, they often innocently and miserably fall victim to poisoning by chicken farm owners. Thus, wildlife biologists keep promoting raising chickens in coops and growing rice without pesticide.

Luckily, the leopard cat population in Nantou seems to be more secure, as the local residents there have been long used to the presence of TESRI(特有生物保育研究中心). Wildlife biologists are also discussing the potential for reintroducing the species into New Taipei City's Feitsui Dam watershed. Hopefully, the species can have a better chance of thriving in Taiwan in the near future.

38. What is the main idea of the passage?
- (A) The importance of protecting wild animals.
 - (B) Leopard cats' influence on the environment.
 - (C) A comparison of the species in different habitats.
 - (D) The reasons for leopard cats' becoming endangered in Taiwan.
39. Which of the following is closest in meaning to "thriving" in the last sentence?
- (A) increasing
 - (B) separating
 - (C) frustrating
 - (D) arresting

40. According to the passage, which of the following statements about leopard cats is NOT true?
(A) They are unlikely to be found in high-altitude mountains in Taiwan.
(B) Besides chickens, they love to eat field mice and squirrels.
(C) They travel around central Taiwan as well as New Taipei City.
(D) Their habitats are getting smaller because of humans' development.
41. According to the passage, which of the following statements is true?
(A) Wildlife experts consider making Feitsui Dam watershed a new home to the leopard cats.
(B) The chicken farm owners can't keep their chickens safe without using poison.
(C) The population of leopard cats in Nantou is not as secure as that in Miaoli.
(D) If the habitats were not destroyed, there would be no threats to Taiwan's leopard cats.
