As we continue to fight against COVID-19, healthcare providers (also defined as doctors of medicine) play an important role in our lives. They 21 offer a cure for patients 21 prevent unnecessary injuries. They take care of almost everything in one's health. Most importantly, they help reduce the impact of the disease outbreaks at every opportunity. But how much do we know about the history of medicine? Probably not much. The only thing we know is that it is the outcome of many people's knowledge and efforts. Indeed, 22 the pioneers of medicine, societies have changed the way healthcare providers deal with disease from ancient times to the present. Al-Zahrawi, a medical pioneer in Arab, 23, brought all his knowledge together in 30 books. The topics of the books moved on from basic ideas to complex ones, 24 food and health, skin diseases, and poisons. Dr. Atala, another medical pioneer at North Carolina's Wake Forest Institute, 25 replacement tissues and organs, from kidneys to ears, since 1999. There are many other examples. Read the following emails and answer the questions.

Dear Ms. Rosa Lee,

Two days ago, my friend at college sent me a message about an innovative program. He said that in this program, your school is going to offer a series of courses taught by a group of distinguished professors who have achieved international fame in their fields. After receiving the message that day, I tried to search for more information on your department's website, but in vain. Then, I got into contact with your department by phone. The secretary gave me your email address. Since I'm really into this program, it would be a great benefit to me if you could forward information regarding the requirements.

I am looking forward to receiving the detailed information. Thank you.

Alan Wang

Dear Mr. Wang,

Thank you so much for your interest in the innovative program from June 30th to September 1st. Currently, we are renewing our website, so information online will be temporarily unavailable. That is why you were not able to browse our web page on May 28th.

In addition to the latest report card and a certificate of English proficiency, the following are requirements you need to meet to apply for this program.

1. The applicants' university must have academic partnership with New York University (NYU).
2. The applicants must be recommended by their home faculty, ensuring that they study in the Department of Education.
3. The number of students accepted from each partner university is 15, and the number on the waiting list is 5. If the number is reached already, there will not be any further students admitted to the program.
4. All applicants must submit the completed application form (see the attachment) to innovative@nyu.edu before May 31st, that is, a month ahead of the program. They also need to pay the application fee of US$150 by Visa or Mastercard.
5. The admission letter will be sent to the department of your school on June 5th when acceptance is confirmed.

If you have any further questions, feel free to call me or contact me at this email address.

Sincerely,

Dr. Rosa Lee

Tel: 212-998-4433

Email: rosalee@nyu.edu

Do animals have a sixth sense? Can it be used to detect a natural disaster about to strike? For scientists, the answer is positive. In 2011, a research team used motion-triggered cameras to observe the wildlife in Yanachaga National Park, the Amazon rainforest in Peru. Just in a few days prior to a 7.0 magnitude earthquake in the Peruvian Andes, the team noted the number of wild animals had decreased and eventually disappeared. Likewise, a team of US scientists attached geolocators, lightweight tracking devices, to golden-winged warblers. They found that these warblers flew away from the Cumberland Mountains of eastern Tennessee, their habitats, to Florida or even Cuba, but several days later they flew back. According to the scientists, it was deadly storms that made these warblers fly more than 900 miles. In fact, there are numerous cases of how animals, such as dogs, sharks, and elephants, behave abnormally right before a natural disaster. Scientists are hence puzzled over animals' unusual behavior. Dr. Rachel Grant, an animal biologist at Anglia Ruskin University, said that natural disasters like earthquakes produce a force that hits the Earth's surface, creating an atmospheric change that causes a sense of unease. Other scientists explained that it is low-frequency sounds and vibrations that allow animals to sense upcoming danger. Basically, animals can flee away from the danger they sense to favor their survival success, and humans can interpret why animals move away from the unpleasant "stimuli." However, humans are still unable to use animals as monitoring systems effectively to protect our lives and property in time from natural disasters.

38. What is the main idea of this passage?
(A) Why animals use their sixth sense as humans do.
(B) How wild animals protect people from disasters.
(C) Why scientists use monitoring devices on wildlife.
(D) How animals detect a natural disaster and respond to it.
39. Which of the following is TRUE about a motion-triggered camera?
(A) It can be used to monitor and track the wildlife.
(B) It is usually attached to golden-winged warblers.
(C) It helps wild animals to get back to their habitats.
(D) It is widely used to guard animals by biologists.

40. According to the passage, what makes golden-winged warblers fly far away from home to safe places?
(A) Migration for the winter. (B) Severe storms.
(C) Earthquakes. (D) Atmospheric gas.
41. According to the passage, which of the following statements is NOT true?
(A) Atmospheric change will influence animals' feelings.
(B) Dogs may have unusual behavior right before an earthquake.
(C) A 7.0 magnitude earthquake forces animals to die out.
(D) Vibrations at low frequency may frighten away wild animals.
42. Based on the passage, what can we say about animals' sixth sense?
(A) Scientists studied it and used it to warn people of natural disasters.
(B) People used it to protect their lives and properties from disasters.
(C) Researchers used it to detect the vibration of the environment.
(D) Forest workers used it to observe animals in the Amazon rainforest.
